

Editor's choice

Stylage® HydroMAX Treatment

While I am not ready to try dermal fillers on my face, one area of my body that is starting to show the tell-tale signs of ageing and could do with an injectable boost is my décolletage.

I have started to notice a few creases appearing in this area, as well as on my neck and, like any woman, they are not something I enjoy looking at in the mirror. So when I got the chance to try out the new Stylage® HydroMAX treatment at the very capable hands of Dr Elisabeth Dancey at Bijoux Medi-Spa, I was keen to give it a shot!

Stylage® HydroMAX is the very first mesotherapy treatment to cross link hyaluronic acid filler with sorbitol. Sorbitol is a potent anti-oxidant naturally found in fruits and vegetables, which reduces the negative effects of free radicals and optimises the longevity of the treatment. It restores proper levels of skin hydration and improves elasticity and firmness to produce a perfectly natural smoothing effect on lines and wrinkles.

Due to its long-lasting anti-oxidative hydration, skin that has been compromised by age, stress, poor diet, smoking, sun exposure, frost, wind and hormonal imbalances can now drink in the benefits of this painless procedure and appear healthy and glowing again.

After putting on some local anaesthetic cream to numb the area, Dr Dancey delivered the product into my skin using a series of multiple, micro fine injections. The treatment was relatively painless and comfortable, as you would expect when you are being treated by one of the UK's pioneers of mesotherapy. It also did not take very long, which was a bonus for me as the patient.

The hyaluronic gel creates an intense smoothing, hydrating and plumping effect and the sorbitol immediately reduces the negative effects of free radical damage. The risk of bruising and swelling is also greatly decreased and the sorbitol protects the product from degrading, creating a longer lasting effect.

Dr Dancey recommended that I have a course of four treatments in one-week intervals to obtain the best results, but you do get an immediate hydrated and plumping effect after just one treatment.

This is an ideal treatment for anyone who wants to freshen up dehydrated skin on their face or body and was the perfect solution for me.

Vicky